DR. WAGGONER IS ACQUITTED BUT MUST PAY HALF THE COSTS.

Only Gains Partial Victory in Fight to Clear Good Name of Charge by Negress.

HIS FRIENDS DISAPPOINTED

Reported That One Man on Jury Held Out Against Complete Acquittal. Murder Case is Called for Trial and Manslaughter Asked.

UNIONTOWN, June 22.—Dr. Leroy X. Waggoner, the Brownsville physician, accused of paternity by Annie Manning, a 22 year old negress who was employed for a time in the Waggoner home, was acquitted of the charge preferred against him, but his good name is stained by the fact that the jury taxed him with half the costs, thereby imputing that he was at least partially responsible for the condition of the woman. The prosecutrix will pay the other half of the costs.

A bitter fight was waged by Dr. Waggoner, his attorneys arguing that the charge was originally preferred to blackmail the physician. The testimony in his defense was strong and it was generally believed an immediate acquittal would result.

The jury retired at 5.15 and when it stayed out longer than was expected, the friends of the physician became anxious. It was eight o'clock before an agreement was reached. By this morning, just before the verdict was announced a rumor had leaked out as to the finding of the jury, which proved correct.

It is learned that about 25 ballots were taken, and from other sources it is reported that one juror held out and prevented an earlier agreement.

Following the disposition of this case the murder trial of Charles S. McNellis was taken up. McNellis is white and about 30 years old. He is alleged to have killed James Smith, a negro, on the night of December 24, last.

At 2:30 this afternoon, following the completion of the Commonwealth's case, the jury was instructed to return a verdict acquitting McNellis, which was done.

Nettie Aliff, a white woman, came over to McNellis and said she was being insulted by a number of negroes. The negroes came over in front of McNellis' home and an argument ensued. One of the men is said to have reached towards his hip pocket and McNellis fired. The next morning Smith's dead body was discovered lying along McNellis' fence. The man then gave himself up.

The Commonwealth asks only a manslaughter verdict and the jury was empaneled in a little more than an hour.

Joseph Yezbeck was placed on trial for secreting goods to defraud creditors. It is a small case. Fred Sheppard, a negro, followed to answer the charge of stealing a brass mounted saddle belonging to Harvey Swartz of Uniontown. Attorney John Duggan, Jr., was appointed to defend him.

Mrs. Gertrude England was granted a divorce from her husband, Clifford England by Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen. Considerable testimony of an unpleasant nature was offered. It was alleged that the husband choked the wife on several occasions and witnesses testified that they believed he had "spells." The wife testified that during the first month of their married life he never bathed, and that he usually put it off for three months at a time. Once she remembered that it ran up to nine months. They were married at Pittsburg September 3, 1903, and subsequently lived at McKeesport and Smock.

A new trial was refused John R. Bungard, former jail warden. Bungard was convicted of neglect of duty in allowing a prisoner on his way to the penitentiary to stop at a bar and purchase a drink. A new trial was also refused Thomas A. Russell, alias "Steeple Jack," and James Kuhns convicted of robbing Robert L. Gray of Brownsville.

Joseph Phares pleaded guilty to a charge of carrying concealed weapons and of breaking and entering a Baltimore & Ohio railroad car at Connellsville. He said he found the razor and attempted to cut the seal on the car with it. He was arrested. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $75 and costs and serve six months in the workhouse on the weapon charge and six months in the workhouse on the other charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

Mike Gonda, who is thought to be insane, was acquitted of a charge of removing an identification ticket from a coal car, the charge being made by Howard Wilson. The county will pay the costs and as Gonda came recently from Washington county he will be returned there for detention. In the meantime he was remanded to jail.

BLEW OUT HIS BRAINS.

Charles Ulary Commits Suicide After Shooting Girl.

ERIE, June 22.—(Special.)—Prompted by jealousy Charles Ulary, aged 25, of New York city, last evening called on Beatrice Kelley, aged 13, of this city and suddenly pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot the girl through the right cheek and under the eye. Then he turned the weapon on himself blowing out his brains. The girl will recover.

FRAMING THE TAX AMENDMENT

President, Cabinet and Legal Advisers Are Growing Wrinkles Over the Big Issue.

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, June 22—A perfected Corporation Tax amendment will probably be ready for presentation to Congress Thursday. The problem, which seemed simple of solution at the start, has developed complications that has put wrinkles in the brains of the President's cabinet, his legal advisers and the members of the foreign Relations Committee.

President Taft finds he has tackled a job which will surely result in a prolonged debate in the Senate and House and may lead to the postponement of the determination of the question until the next regular session. The present stumbling block in preparing the amendment is the matter of bonds. There has arisen serious differences whether the interest on bonds should be eliminated in calculating the "net earnings" of corporations upon which it is proposed to levy a federal tax of two per cent.

Some members of the cabinet, notably, Secretary of State Knox believes the law taxing all earnings over and above operating expenses is pro-constitutional. Others argue this means a double tax on holders of bonds. Attorney General Wickersham is today endeavoring to frame an amendment that will stand the court test.

YEGGMEN BLOW UP SAFE AND ESCAPE WITH $3,800

Noise Wakened Every One in Town But as People Looked Out Shots Drove Them Back.

United Press Telegram.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 22.—Sheriff Jesse Ferris is scouring the country at the head of a posse in search of yeggmen who early today blew up the safe of the Citizens National Bank at Locke and escaped with $3,800 cash and a number of securities, the vaule of which is not known.

The noise of the explosion awakened nearly every one in Locke and shattered the windows for several blocks around the bank. The robbers were evidently on the lookout for just such an emergency and had men stationed at the corners of all the streets leading to the bank and as fast as heads appeared at the windows shots were fired in their direction. This so terrified the inhabitants that it kept every one away until the robbers had ample time to escape.

AUTO PARTY HAS NARROW ESCAPE

James R. Barnes Just Crosses Over Railroad Track Escaping Train By Hair's Breadth.

UNIONTOWN, June 22.—The big automobile of James R. Barnes narrowly escaped destruction Sunday evening when the lives of its occupants were threatened by an approaching Baltimore & Ohio freight train at the Fayette street crossing.

Just as the machine was crossing the tracks the caboose of the train rounded a nearby curve at rapid rate. The chauffeur spurted the machine ahead and the caboose just grazed its rear wheels.

In the machine at the time were Mrs. James R. Barnes and Misses Stella and Gwendolen Barnes, together with their guests, Misses Agnes and Katherine Shields of Pittsburg.

Broke the Record.

J. Frank Antram of Luzerne township turned over to the Commissioners yesterday $21,675.31, which was 95 per cent. of his tax duplicate. It broke all previous records.

SEVEN NEW COUNCILMEN ELECTED AND $10,000 IN PAVING CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Heed Was Also, at Last, Given to the Insistent Directions of Dr. Samuel Dixon, Commissioner of Health, and a Start Ordered to Be Made On Comprehensive Sewage System.

At the most remarkable session of Town Council held in years, seven new Councilmen were elected, more than $10,000 worth of street paving contracted for and heed finally given to the insistent demands of the State Commissioner of Health to file plans for a comprehensive sewer system and disposal plant.

With every member of the Council present and a chip on almost every shoulder the meeting last night might be termed acrimonious, the half dozen more brick sellers in the audience watching with careful note the proceedings, but the Steam Roller was manned by the usual force, and it rolled away with the prizes and its usual velocity.

Irishman met Irishman in the battle for the prize package in the letting of the contracts. Bernard O'Connor was there with the goods in the shape of a bid that seriously menaced the interests of Marcus Marietta. There was no denying that O'Connor was the lowest bidder of four of the paving, grading and curbing of Orchard alley, which passes the hotel Marietta, Meadow Lane, and Prospect street. There was no objection to his having these jobs but the paving of Johnston avenue was the contention. Duggan charged him with having got inside information, and wanted to know how he did it. O'Connor said it was none of his business.

Before any of the bids had been read out Mr. Duggan stated that "we have looked over all the bids, and find that Marcus Marietta offers us the best proposition on Johnston avenue." He submitted the following estimate of probable cost:

Bernard O'Connor.
Johnson avenue	$4,400.00
Meadow Lane	1,040.20
Orchard Alley	2,308.00
Prospect street	1,754.50
Marcus Marietta.
Johnson avenue	$4,361.02
Meadow Lane	2,345.00
Orchard Alley	2,678.20
Prospect street	2,757.80

The total cost of the work he summed up would be $10,444.22, divided as follows: O'Connor $6,082.70; Marietta $4,361.52.

Hardly had Mr. Duggan read off his "figgers" before Mr. O'Connor was on his feet objecting to the manner in which his bid had been treated. "We have the figgers here and we compiled them." It looked like the big West Side contractor was coming over for a minute and take a pile driver punch at the West Side Councilman, and the colloquy was finally interrupted by the minority demanding that the original contracts be read out. There were four bidders. P. J. Flynn, Bernard O'Connor, Marcus Marietta and Johnston, Trump & Enos. Flynn and Enos were never in the running. The only two bidders that the Street Committee would consider were Marietta and O'Connor.

Borough Engineer Hogg had tabulated the bids. It required a map two feet wide by three feet long to put all the bidders and the manner in which they bid upon it. Seven kinds of brick were specified in the bids. Some bid upon one thing and some upon another. Bricks sold cheap by some firms and by others they were more costly. Different grades, qualities, styles and fashions were discussed in brick and it finally wound up with the letting of the contract without any specified brick being named, although the impression prevailed that Morgantown brick was the kind to be used.

Councilman Lepley appealed to the body to adopt some certain kind of brick at a certain price, but this it was declared would give a manufacturer a monopoly. Councilman Girard appealed to the chair to have the contracts read. He was supported by several councilmen, but President Stillwagon declared that they had been read and handed over the batch of contracts and specifications. He refused to have the clerk read the originals. Engineer Gibson declared that the map was a faithful reproduction of the bids as submitted. This was satisfactory and the voting began. It got mixed up at the outset some of the councilmen believing that they were voting upon whether the bids should be let at all and the others contending that they were voting for the three thoroughfares to be let to O'Connor and the Johnston avenue contract to Marietta. After plunging around and changing votes several times the question was put, whether Marietta should have Johnston avenue at his bid and whether the contract for Orchard alley, Prospect street and Meadow Lane should go to

CANDIDATES FILE EXPENSE ACCOUNTS.

Judge Umbel, Successful Man at Democratic Primary, Spent Most Money.

JONES' CAMPAIGN WAS CHEAP

Republican Candidate For the Judgeship Expended Only $174.73 Against $6,300 For Successful Democrat. Some of the Items are Mentioned.

UNIONTOWN, June 22.—The expense accounts of the three judicial candidates at the primary on June 1 have been filed in Uniontown. Judge Umbel spent the most money to land the Democratic nomination, the approximate total of his campaign bill being $6,300. H. S. Dumbauld, who was defeated, admits $3,700, but the largest single item to an individual was $100. Alfred E. Jones, who landed the Republican nomination, spent $174.73, about $135.00 of which was for newspaper advertising.

The items in Judge Umbel's account are for advertising, car fare, clerk hire and other matters. Under the certain paragraphs of the Uniform Primary Law, which in a former campaign included items for "dissemination of information," Judge Umbel itemizes the following expenditures, giving the date they were made:

B. F. Sterling	$ 250
J. S. Christy	100
D. W. McDonald	100
R. D. Dawson	200
J. S. Christy	200
D. W. McDonald	250
B. F. Sterling	300
S. E. Frock	1,250
J. S. Christy	150
B. F. Sterling	400
B. F. Sterling	220

Mr. Dumbauld states his expenses were for advertising, canvassing and expense, together with watchers' costs. M. J. Tulley of the Yough region made the biggest haul, getting $100, part of which went to pay watchers. The largest other single item in Mr. Dumbauld's account was $336 to The Courier Company for advertising.

J. Frank Kremer pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery preferred by Elmer Coppett in court yesterday.

BRIDGEPORT TEACHERS.

Corps Elected at Meeting Held Saturday Evening.

HAMMONDVILLE, June 22.—The Bridgeport Independent Board of Education met Saturday evening, June 19, and elected the following corps o fteachers: No. 1, Miss Delia DeVaux; No. 2, Miss Eva Adams; No. 3, Mis Ola McClain; No. 4, Miss Maud Cunningham; No. 5, Ogle Long; No. 6, G. W. Gans; No. 7, Homer C. Wright. The wages were unchanged.

MARIE ARNOLD TAKES POISON.

HER DEATH IS EXPECTED

Given a Thirty Day Sentence This Morning For Being a Nuisance. Has Been About Connellsville For a Long Time.

Marie Arnold, a young girl who has figured in the police court frequently for street walking, and who was committed to jail for thirty days, drank a dose of carbolic acid about 2 o'clock in the borough lockup and her death is expected.

Chief of Police Rottler a few minutes before 2 o'clock told her to prepare for removal to the county jail. She made no reply to him but seemed apparently willing to go along. When he returned for her he found her lying prostrate in her cell. Being unable to arouse her, he quickly summoned Dr. T. B. Echard, who quickly discovered that the girl had attempted suicide by poisoning herself.

The carbolic acid had burned her mouth frightfully. The physicians worked over the woman for sometime, but she did not yield to the treatment and her death is expected.

The girl is rather pretty, and when she came to Connellsville more than a year ago was very attractive. At that time, but she did not yield to the stable Swindel of Meyersdale on complaint of her mother, who charged her with incorrigibility. After a short stay at her home she returned to town again and has been in this neighborhood ever since. She is about 17 years old.

It is said that her mother was twice married and her step father is named Jones and is employed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Sand Patch.

It is not known how the girl got the poison, but it is supposed that a small boy purchased it for her. A thorough search of the cell and the premises has failed to disclose the bottle that contained the poison.

FATHER FINDS HIS LOST BOY.

Edward McCormick Recovers Body of Drowned Lad in Swimming Hole

WAS HELD DOWN BY CHAIN

Remains of Little Hurst McCormick Recovered Within a Few Yards of Point He Went Down Friday Morning—Body Well Preserved.

Edward McCormick this morning recovered the body of his little son, Hurst, from the old swimming hole near Sodom shops where the lad went to a watery grave Friday morning. The body was located shortly before eight o'clock this morning.

Since the time of the accident scores of men have been dragging the river between Connellsville and Dawson in their efforts to recover the body.

This morning William Durnell and several others were about the old swimming hole. Durnell grasped hold of an old chain which formerly held a log boom in place. He gave the chain several severe jerks and suddenly an object floated to the surface, only to sink in an instant.

Mr. McCormick was called to the scene and peering beneath the waters saw his son's body floating a few feet beneath the surface. He secured grappling hooks and hauled the body to the surface.

The several days in the water did not seriously affect the body, which was remarkably well preserved. It was laid out on the bank and Funeral Director C. C. Mitchell was called to take charge of it.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of the parents, 801 North Eighth street at 3 o'clock. Interment in Chestnut Hill Cemetery.

BLOODHOUNDS IN MINE.

Trace Foreigner Who Became Lost in York Run Pit.

FAIRCHANCE, June 22.—For the first time, perhaps, in the history of mining in Fayette county, bloodhounds were used in a pit to trace a lost man. When the men were checked out of the pit on Saturday afternoon it was found that one of the miners was missing. The rolls showed that he was a new man. Superintendent Dauphitt organized a seraching party and after going through the entire working the man could not be located. He then secured two bloodhounds and put them on the trail. They lead the searchers to the man who had fallen weak and exhausted, his lamp having been extinquished.

William Harshman Meets With Severe Accident on P. R. R.

William Harshman, of Everson, a brakeman on the Pennsylvania railroad is a new patient at the Cottage State Hospital. He was caught between an engine and box car last night, sustaining a very painful injury. His left hand was so badly mashed that it will probably have to be amputated. Harshman is 27 years of age.

AN EASTERN OUTLET FOR THE LAKE ERIE

Seventy Miles of Railroad Costing Seven Million Dollars Will Be Begun this Fall.

Engineers of the New York Central railroad have completed the survey of a $7,000,000 railway which will give the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad an outlet to the east from Pittsburg and relieve congested conditions along the main line. It is said that the new road will connect with the P. & L. E. at Port Vue, and a bridge be built across the Youghiogheny.

The road will follow Long Run to Circleville, thence down the valley to Larimer, where it will cross the main line of the Pennsylvania. Through Westmoreland county it will pass through Delmont, down Beaver Creek and across Sloan summit. It will cross five miles above Saltsburg over Blackleg creek, and going a little north of Homer City will connect at Clymer, with the Pittsburg & Clearfield division of the New York Central thus securing direct eastern connections. The road will be about 70 miles long. At present all the tonnage along the Lake Erie is handled through Pittsburg to Youngstown, and over the New Castle lines. It is said work will be commenced this fall in order to block any competition out of the territory.

HEAT RECORDS WENT TO SMASH YESTERDAY

First Day of Summer, Also Longest One, Brought With It a Torrid Wave.

Was it hot yesterday? Just a little warm. Records for the present season went to smash when the mercury on the first day of summer registered 90 degrees. That is what it read last evening. In the morning it was 72, while this morning started out like another recordbreaker, 73 being hung up.

Owing to the rain which fell nearly all day it didn't get quite so hot, but little air stirred and it was warm and sultry. Ninety degrees is the highest record taken this year by the West Penn weather works.

ROY E. JENSEN IS PRINCIPAL AT GIBSON

Connellsville Township School Board Met And Elected Three Teachers.

The Connellsville Township School Board met last evening in the Title & Trust building and elected a principal and teachers for the two vacant rooms. Roy E. Jensen was re-elected principal of the High School at Gibson, Miss Flossie Summerville teacher of room No. 3 at Gibson, and J. Waller Shearer teacher at the Narrows.

This completes the list of teachers for the coming year. All members of the board were present and the meeting was a short one.

WOMEN ROUT WORKMEN.

Claim That Their Husbands Were to Be Given Jobs on State Road.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Women stopped work on the new State road that is being built between Avella and Independence. Contractor N. C. Hunter of Washington arrived with his gang of workmen when the women attacked them with stones and sticks. They claim that the agreement was that their husbands should be given the work on the road instead of importing outsiders. The men were driven into the woods and the horses attached to the plows were turned loose.

Fenders on All Cars.

The Washington, Pa., Council has decided that fenders must be placed on all cars.

GREENWOOD SCHOOL EXPENSIVE

It Will Cost The District $6,000, But Is Cheap at That, the Board Thinks. Thirteen Mills For the Schools. How It Was Figured.

The Finance Committee of the School Board met last night and laid a millage of 13 mills. There was one dissenting vote, that of James S. Darr. The millage is the same as last year in Connellsville, but on the West Side it is an increase of three mills.

An estimate as to the needs of the School District for the next year was presented by Chairman J. A. Armstrong of the Finance Committee. The General Fund will probably fall about $1,000 short of the estimate, even if all the taxes are collected, but the Board hopes to run the schools under, rather than over, the estimates submitted. The Building Fund may come under the schedule, but the purchase of the Greenwood schools and other improvements had to be figured on. The Sinking Fund should yield $7,000, the amount necessary. There is no Library Fund, the Finance Committee allowing $1,800 for library purposes, $300 more than last year but $200 under a one-half mill tax.

In the General Fund it is estimated that $51,700 will be needed during the coming year, divided as follows: Teachers' salaries, $37,000; books, $2,400; supplies, $1,800; fuel, light, water, etc., $1,500; salaries of Treasurer and Secretary, $500; janitors' salaries, $3,209; miscellaneous expenses, $500; outstanding note, $3,000; library, $1,800.

For the Building Fund the money will be needed as follows: Supplies and repairs, $2,200; furniture and improvements, $500; insurance, $350; outstanding note, $3,000; note of Fayette Lumber Company, $4,080; Greenwood school building, $6,000. Seven thousand dollars is needed in the

ODD FELLOWS TO HOLD BIG AFFAIR

Somerset County Association Preparing For a Monster Celebration at Confluence.

Confluence lodge I. O. O. F. of Confluence is making extensive preparations for handling a record breaking crowd Labor Day, Monday, September 6, when the Somerset County Association of Odd Fellows will hold their annual picnic in Confluence.

The work of taking care of all the details has been placed in the hands of the following committees:

Transportation and Invitations—W. A. Burnworth, N. H. Crow, Orville Fike.

Program and printing—Orville Fike, C. A. Frantz, E. R. Bigger.

Parade—H. R. Watson, N. H. Crow, Dr. H. P. Meyers.

Refreshments and arrangements—J. W. Clouse, M. E. Goller, Grant Pyle, J. W. Fisher, J. H. Ringer, S. T. Downs, O. E. Younkin, Charles Knight, Samuel Hall, C. R. Fichtner.

Music—T. K. Pullin, C. E. Black, H. C. Dean.

In the matter of music for the day there are to be eight bands, including the celebrated Elks' band of Johnstown, Tenth Regiment band of Connellsville and the Berlin Concert band.

Invitations have been sent to 20 lodges to attend with their friends and every assurance is given that all will be well represented.

The amusement committee is making special efforts to have the attractions something on the extraordinary order. A baseball game between the best teams in the county will be a special feature. Races of several different kinds between members of the different lodges also will be of interest. Prizes will be offered for winners in all the events.

SOMERSET'S RECORD COW.

Gave Fifty-Five Pounds of Milk Per Day.

John Weigle, who lives a mile west of Somerset, is the owner of a cow, cross between Short Horn and Jersey, which his neighbors think is a prize-winner. She became fresh April 10, and last week produced on an average of 55 pounds of milk per day, from which Mrs. Weigle made 17 pounds of high grade butter. The cow is in good pasture and once a day is given a little chop. The newspapers are constantly reporting the sale of registered cows for fabulous sums, few of which have done much better than the animal referred to.

BOYS TO CAMP AT ROGER'S MILLS.

Decide Upon Two Weeks Beginning July 8, But May Stay Longer.

WILL TAKE PROFESSIONAL COOK

A Daily Program Will Be Arranged to Cover the Time From Sun Up to Sunset—Boys Not Members of the Y. M. C. A. Invited to Go.

The meeting called for last evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms to consider plans for a summer camp was attended by twenty boys between the ages of 13 and 16 years and they were most enthusiastic in their expressions regarding such a proposition.

The sentiment was unanimous in favor of holding the camp during the month of July, for two weeks at least, but in order to give the boys a chance to participate in the big celebration here on July 5th, it was decided to settle on the dates, July 8th to 22nd, with provision that if sufficient number want to stay beyond that date, arrangements will be made accordingly.

After hearing the report of Secretary F. L. Chase and E. W. Horner, who made a trip into the mountains last week for the purpose of choosing a suitable location, it was decided to "drive stakes" at Roger's Mills, partly on account of the natural advantages which the site affords. The spot selected is right on the edge of a fine piece of woods, where an abundance of sunshine can reach the tents with its sweetening influences and yet affording ample shade for the "dining tent" where the meals can be leisurely enjoyed. Still water is within a few rods of the camp, easily accessible for a "morning dip," while fishing, boating and swimming will be available at all times.

One of the big attractions is the base ball grounds, laid out in the regulation size and with the necessary fittings and this within a five minutes walk of the camp. A "professional cook" will supply the demands of vigorous appetites and it will be the aim of the management to give plenty of plain, wholesome food, such as growing boys need, rather than an attempt at "fancy dishes."

A daily program will be arranged, covering the time from "rising" until "taps" are sounded at night, thus giving a wide range of activities and at the same time making it possible to have closer supervision over the boys. Good discipline will be maintained at all times and while it will not be burdensome, it is recognized as essential in all well regulated camps and will be especially appreciated by all parents as an educational feature of great value. The expense of the camp will be figured down to the actual cost of maintenance, with a probability that it will not exceed $5.00 per week for each boy.

The General Secretary of the Association will be in direct charge of the camp, with such other assistance as may be found necessary, and all applications should be made to him before July 1. Applicants will be registered in the order in which they are received.

It should be remembered that the management is extending this camp privilege to all the boys of Connellsville, whether members of the Association or not.

This year there will be visitors' day each week and friends and relatives of the boys will be cordially welcomed on that day. It will probably be on Tuesday.

COAL BRIQUETTING INVESTIGATIONS MADE

Tests Made By the United States Geological Survey Subject of Special Bulletin.

Investigations undertaken to show the possibility of making satisfactory commercial briquets from low-grade or waste coals, began at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in 1904 by the United States Geological Survey, were continued in 1907 and 1908 at Norfolk, Va., the Survey's fuel-testing plant having been removed to that place. Two briquetting machines were installed at the Norfolk plant—one of English and one of American make. The briquets made at this plant were tested on locomotives of several railways entering Norfolk and on the United States torpedo boat Biddle, in comparison with the run-of-mine coal used in making them. These tests were described in Bulletin 367 of the Geological Survey and a detailed account of the manufacture of the briquets, written by C. L. Wright, has now been published by the Survey as Bulletin 385. Mr. Wright had charge of the plant while the work was done in 1908, and his report includes notes on the binders used, a fully illustrated description of the equipment, details of the physical properties and chemical composition of the briquets made from 16 different coals, and a partial bibliography of recent literature on briquetting. The bulletin may be had without charge on application to the Director, United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

CRITIC OF DIAZ WHO FACES TRIAL ON LIBEL CHARGE

Carlo De Fornaro, a cartoonist and writer living in New York, faces trial in that city on a charge of criminal libel preferred by Rafael R. Espindola, editor of El Imparcial, City of Mexico. Fornaro while on a visit to Mexico wrote a book entitled "Diaz Czar of Mexico," in which he arraigned the President and many prominent people in the republic. Espindola went to New York and secured the arrest of the author. Fornaro declares the Mexican government is behind the prosecution. The trial is set for today.

WHAT IS HEM-ROID.

A Tablet, Taken Internally, That Cures Piles.

Piles (hemorrhoids) are getting more common every day, because we live unnaturally, overeating, overworking, taking little exercise, gradually causing a deadening of veins and tissues in the lower bowel. Blood stagnation is the cause of piles, and a condition that can't be permanently cured with ointments.

Children's Party.

A color scheme of red and green was handsomely carried out at a well appointed children's party at which Mrs. John Zimmerman was hostess yesterday afternoon at her home on South Prospect street in honor of the fifth birthday anniversary of her little daughter Frances. The hours were from 2:30 until 5 o'clock. Thirty little friends wearing the daintiest of frocks were present to assist in celebrating the happy event. Various game had been arranged for the amusement of the little guests and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent by all present. The feature games were a bean hunt, and a doll dressing contest. Little Miss Helen Gray won the prize for having the best dressed doll while little Miss Grace Richey carried off the prize in the bean hunt. Blowing soap bubbles was also a favorite amusement.

Following the games the guests were ushered into the dining room where an elegantly appointed luncheon was served. Covers were laid for 30. In the center of the table was the conventional birthday cake bearing five lighted candles representing the age of the little hostess, while at either end of the table were bouquets of red roses. The favors were clay pipes tied with bows of red and green ribbon. Little Miss Frances was remembered by her many friends with very pretty and useful presents. Miss Frances Freed assisted the hostess in looking after the comfort of her little guests. The out of town guests present were Mildred Frew of Charleroi, and Grace Richey of Uniontown.

HOMES OF FOUR ROOMS FOR JUNE BRIDES AND GROOMS

Somehow it seems a shame to "talk shop" in this public way to young married folks, but we cannot resist the temptation to give one bit of practical advice which is really important. And it is this: Start your married life the only right way—IN A HOME OF YOUR OWN. No matter how small it is, no matter how much of a finer estate you may grow to in after years, you will never, never forget this first little home of your own.

A parlor, a bed room, a dining room and a kitchen are all you need to start with. They are easy to take care of, easy to furnish and easy to love. If we were at liberty to show you a list of the young folks we have sold little home outfits to, your eyes would open with astonishment, for it is a long list and a good one. And on the entire list, there is not recorded one single instance of dissatisfaction. What a fine record!

You must not feel that you haven't enough money to own a home of your own. Always remember that we stand ready to sell you an entire outfit on such a clean wholesome, dignified terms of credit that there cannot possibly be any hardship in it for you. We are more anxious to please you than you are to be pleased. Years and years from now we want you to look back and remember that "The Aaron Way" helped to make you happy and contented.

We have a great variety of four room outfits, from the very least expensive at $125 up to the finest at $5,000. We sell such a tremendous number of them all over Western Pennsylvania that we can afford to trim our profits to the very closest margin, trusting in big volume of small profits for our final welfare. We invite you to consult with us and to take advantage of every courtesy for which our house is noted.

PUBLIC BUSINESS FINISHED AND UNFINISHED.

The Town Council did business with a vengeance last night. It heeded the suggestion of The Courier, that the vacancies on this side of the river should, in deference to the right of ward representation, be filled; it proceeded, in defiance of the protests of the Chairman of the Finance Committee and the Borough Solicitors, to let street paving contracts aggregating over $10,000; and it lent tardy ear to the demand of the State Department of Health concerning the sewerage and sewage disposal question.

We congratulate the ruling powers in the Town Council on their selections to fill the vacancies. It was a palpable slate, but it contains the names of excellent citizens, and upon the whole good borough government will no doubt be a distinct gainer; besides, it was an act of simple justice to the wards whose local interests have not had their proper representation. The only criticisms we have to offer is is that the members-elect were not immediately apprised of their election and invited to take part in the deliberations of the body.

The action of the Town Council in letting the paving contracts is a mixture of shrewd private interest and diplomatic public action. The streets proposed to be paved involve interests which are suspected of having a private "pull" in the Town Council, and it was perhaps privately argued and assumed that the addition to the public debt would make it much more certain that the State will eventually have to lend its aid in the matter of the sewage disposal plant. The announcement, however, that the latter plant will not cost over $40,000, instead of $100,000, will give the Town Councilmen who voted for the letting of these street contracts something to think about.

The Town Council has evidently awakened to the fact that it is up against a sewage proposition which it cannot dodge, but which it must meet manfully and earnestly. The governing body should make haste to regain its lost ground in this matter by preparing the plans required by the State. There is yet ample time in which to do this work.

With the completion of these plans and their approval by the State, we will be able to estimate accurately the cost of this improvement. We may also ascertain the cost of a garbage furnace and of garbage collection. This done, the indebtedness of the greater borough should be canvassed and the people should be asked to vote whatever funds are necessary to meet these requirements for permanent improvements. We are not yet up to the legal limit of indebtedness with the consent of the people, and we may be able to meet all demands upon our treasury for the permanent improvements mentioned and any others necessary to the promotion of the growth, convenience and health of Connellsville, without the aid of the State, however much we may have its consent.

In the meantime the South Side citizens are entitled to sewers, and the health and safety of the whole community demands that the situation there be remedied without delay. If we have money for street paving we should have money for the construction of necessary sewers; if there is any doubt about the money holding out, the sewers should come first. They represent health and life; the paved streets, only cleanliness and convenience.

What doth paved streets profit the man who rides in the inside of the hearse?

THE DESIRABILITY OF FOREIGN LABOR.

The influx of foreign labor now that our mines and mills and factories are starting up again brings to mind the fact that the popular outcry against this class, because they "take the bread from the mouths of American workingmen," is hardly warranted by the facts.

It seldom happens that this is done. When work gets scarce, the foreign workmen who has been thrifty, and most of them are, goes back to his native land, because he can live more cheaply there. This migration on his part diminishes the army of unemployed and relieves the situation materially. The American citizen who remains has that much more chance to earn a livelihood.

It is also a fact that many kinds of labor are looked down upon by the average American workmen. He is perfectly willing to permit the foreign laborer to perform such work. He thinks his wits and his skill deserve better employment. He is usually quite right, and his employer usually shares in his views.

It is the elastic quality of our foreign labor supply which makes it desirable to the nation, and too many restrictions should not be placed around it. The object of the immigration laws should be to protect American labor, but not to embarrass American industries when they have the trade of the world at their command.

RECKLESS AUTOMOBILE DRIVING IN TOWN AND COUNTRY.

"Run down by an automobile at a street crossing!" is a newspaper headline that is getting entirely too common. In nine cases out of ten there is no excuse for it and the driver of the machine richly merits punishment. Automobiles should not pass street crossings at any greater speed than the ordinary vehicle, and they should be under perfect control at such times and places.

The cause of all the trouble is the ungovernable desire of most motor car drivers to speed their machines. The faster they run the faster they want to go. It is something of a national characteristic, but it should nevertheless be restrained within bounds when it threatens the lives of others.

Much of the criticism of the general public and perhaps all of the furious and destructive opposition of the Common People who save for their two good legs are motorless, is due primarily to a reckless disregard for their rights as pedestrains by their more fortunate fellow citizens who thunder by in ponderous machines that are terrifying to man and beast.

Death lingers in the crystal depths of the laughing waters as well as in the stress and storm of their troubled surface. In no recent year has there been so many fatal accidents on river, lake and ocean. Neither the big liner carrying a whole community nor the small row boat with its few have escaped disaster. Human life has been swallowed up in the streams and in sounds, in shallows and on shoals, in raging torrent and in silent depths. Water, like fire, is a good servant, but a bad master.

The ramshackly cow should be run out.

It is stated that we are returning to the Roman age in the matter of our cement construction. Let us be careful that we are not returning to the morality of the Roman age. There is room for alarm in some of the extravagances, marital and otherwise, of the Restless Rich.

Cherries are ripe.

It was a Christian Sunday, but a Shoel of a Monday.

The Taft corporation tax promises to lengthen out the Tariff debate in the Senate, but if Washington gets a spell of weather like we had yesterday the debate will become entirely too hot for comfort. In the meantime, business is going right ahead confident that the industries of the country will not be seriously injured by any of the schedules and less by the endless bickering of the jabberwocks.

Connellsville's Glorious Fourth will contain a bundle of prize packages.

It has been judicially determined that a married man should take a bath at least every three months. Presumably the particular Indian known as a bachelor is required to observe the original rule and dip at least once a year, "whether he needs it or not."

The first thing in order for the Independence Day celebration is the raising of the money.

Objection is made to the report of Uniontown's Borough Auditors on the score that it is made up of "just figures." Figures are essential to audits, but they should have facts for handles. They usually have the handles, but the handles are sometimes difficult to grasp.

The religious census of Connellsville is not yet completed. There must be a lot of good people here. It takes a long time to count 'em.

"Pigs is pigs" just now.

The Lake Erie is running the fast trains between Pittsburg and Buffalo now. They are in position by reason of their fine tracks and good equipment to run the fastest trains between Connellsville and Pittsburg. They ought to get into the game and give the Center of the coke region a 75-minute train to the Smoky City. Such an auto would permit them to play, as they say in Uniontown.

The County Home is too slow for fast girls.

Pork has the aviating craze.

The Government is gradually awakening to the fact that coal lands are valuable. The fact is well established in this section, but it took some years to demonstrate it to the public.

It will take a great many experiments to prove that the Illinois and Indiana coals can by any process of manufacture make coke that is chemically, physically, or commercially comparable with the product of the Connellsville fields.

If the storage of coal under water becomes popular, the fishing industry will assume large proportions.

It's 23 for the Town Council now.

Tax collections are reported better than ever this year. The people are getting the habit of paying their taxes this year, instead of next year or any old year. The sooner this habit becomes general the better it will be for the taxpayers and for the public administration of their affairs.

Connellsville seems to have some yellow spots. The official cleansers should get busy and clean up.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Western Penna.—Local showers today and Wednesday; moderate south and southeast winds.

Summer Bargains

Ready now for warmer weather with every aid that we can suggest to make shopping pleasant and profitable. Our store is cool and light and airy. Our rest room has an easy chair that is at your disposal whenever shopping becomes tiresome and we have goods here at prices that cannot help but be attractive. For these reasons we ask you to consider this store as your own home store. A store that is ready and anxious to serve you in any way that it can.

Waite Grass Carpet

If you have not fixed up your porch yet we've Waite Grass Carpet in yard, yard and one-half and two yard widths. Neatly bordered on both edges so that you can make a rug of any length in these widths priced at 50c, 75c and $1 the yard, and theres no other material quite so good for porch rugs as Waite Grass Carpet. Nothing else as serviceable and as sightly.

Vudor Shades

After you've bought your rugs finish up your porch with one or more Vudor shades, then you'll really know porch comfort. 4, 6, 8 and 10 feet wide and priced at $2.25, $3.00, $4.00 and $6.00 each. Probably the last notice for these shades this season.

New Ribbons

A number of new ribbons in to show this week. Among others a novelty in fancy sash ribbon and hair ribbon to match and a plain taffeta ribbon in black and colors at 25c the yard that's better than the ordinary quarter ribbon. Really worth 35c the yard.

Misses' Gowns

A new lot of misses' gowns to show this week. Sizes 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7. These last large enough for a miss 14 years. Well made of best quality muslin. Neatly trimmed with embroidery. Prices 50c for sizes 1 and 2, and 3 at 60c, sizes 4 and 5 at 65c, and 6 and 7 at 75c each.

Parasols

Parasol weather now and parasol buying time, too. You'll see more parasols carried this year than ever before. You'll want one for yourself. This showing we have here starts at $1 and stops at $6.00 and $6.00 and it's as pretty a showing as ever this store had to show before. Some that you'd call bargains at $2.50, $3 and $3.50.

New Waists

Showing this week some plain tailored waists in linen effects at $2.50 that are bargain waists at the price. Material and style and workmanship that you usually pay at least a dollar more for than we are asking for these waists.

New Veilings

Just as you enter the store notice the new veilings in the case on the counter. A good number of the scarce patterns and weaves and colors here just now and most of these priced at 25 and 50c the yard.

Misses' Jacket Suits

Of washable material. Skirt and jacket in color to match. Waist in white; sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years and priced at $4.00, $5.00 and $6.00 Couldn't imagine a more attractive suit for girls about these ages. Couldn't invest your money in anything that you'd please them more.

NEWS OF A DAY IN SCOTTDALE.

Methodist People Interested in Big Time at Ridgeview Park.

WILL BE HELD ON THURSDAY

Rev. Archibald Auld Officiates at Two Marriages—Scottdale Young People at Seton Hill and Indiana State Normal—Mrs. William Muir Dead.

SCOTTDALE, June 22.—Methodist Episcopal people here are interested, as elsewhere, over the prospects for Methodist Day at Ridgeview Park on Thursday, and many are preparing to attend the services, several families in town having cottages at that place. Among the speakers of the day will be Bishop John W. Hamilton, Rev. Thomas Nicholson, Secretary of the Board of Education; John H. Jordan, United States District Attorney of Pittsburg, and Lee S. Smith, President of the Pittsburg Chamber of Commerce. There will be a fine musical program and there are prospects for a great denominational rally that day.

Mrs. William Muir.

Margaret, wife of William Muir, died at her home in Owensdale on Monday, after an illness of several weeks, aged 46 years. She was the wife of William Muir, for about 12 years Mine Foreman of the Franklin mines at that place and was a widely known and respected woman. She is survived by her husband and three children, Christina, Margaret and William. The funeral will be tomorrow and will be private.

Repairing The Street.

Workmen are busily engaged in taking up the brick in the middle of Pittsburg street where the sewer was constructed after the paving was down several years ago ruining that part of the highway, and are repaving the strip over the sewer. It is hoped to restore something of the lost arch of the street, and make Pittsburg street a little better to march over in the big parade in the Independence Day celebration.

Planning a Rally Day.

Rev. Archibald Auld and the people of the Jacobs Creek Methodist Episcopal Church are planning for a rally and roll call day service to be held on July 11 at 7:30 in the evening. Dr. George D. Crissman, formerly pastor at that church, and who last week resigned the presidency of Beaver College, will be the principal speaker.

Are on the Program.

In the exercises at Seton Hill at Greensburg today, in the class of 1908-9 of St. Joseph's Academy, Miss Marie Eckman and Clare Kennedy, both of Scottdale have parts.

Has Free Boarding Now.

John Morton of Scottdale was taken to the county jail at Greensburg yesterday on a charge of defrauding a boarding house, and will enjoy free boarding for a while. It is alleged that he boarded with Mrs. Anna Abel and then resigned on his bill, causing him trouble.

Youngster Has Close Call.

While practicing for the Fourth of July, apparently, Charles Roberts, a four year old boy of West Overton, got hold of a .32-calibre revolver and while playing with it the gun was discharged, shooting out several teeth for the unfortunate little fellow. It is thought that he will get along all right but it was a very close call.

Represented at Indiana.

Scottdale has two representatives in the annual commencement exercises at the Indiana State Normal school on June 30. They are Miss Ella Phelan, daughter of Peter Phelan and Grover Felgar, son of Byers Felgar of near town.

Cable-Chain Marriage.

Miss Cora Chain of Dry Hill and William Cable of Dawson were married by Rev. Archibald Auld of the Alverton charge of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at his residence on Chestnut street, on Friday evening. There were no attendants. The bride is a granddaughter of John Kell of Morgan and a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chain, while the groom is a well known man of Dawson.

Aspey-Snyder Wedding.

Rev. Archibald Auld of Scottdale officiated at the wedding of Oliver E. Aspey of Jacobs Creek and Katherine Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Snyder of Reagantown, at the home of the bride's parents last Thursday, in the presence of about 50 guests. The young couple are on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada.

Went Up to the Mountains.

Postmaster B. C. Fretts, Charles A. Colburn and S. A. Lowe left this morning for Obiopyle to spend a couple of days in the invigorating air of the mountains.

SEVEN NEW COUNCILMEN ELECTED.

For—Duggan, Cypher, Crowley, Hetzel, Stillwagon, Stoner, McCormick, Buttermore, Dean, Friel, Brannon.

Against—Lepley, Thomas, Girard, Millard, Kooser.

Thomas, Millard and Girard asked that they be recorded as voting against the measure on account of the precarious condition of the borough finances.

The meeting was in full swing when W. H. Thomas, Chairman of the Finance Committee arrived, but he was given attention in order to present his report of the borough finances. He received scant courtesy and his report was not to the liking of the majority. At the conclusion of it, when he pointed out that it was unwise and probably unlawful to contract more indebtedness, it was passed up without coment or withotu censure. It is given below and is probably one of the most correct reports of financial conditions prevailing that has ever been presented by a Chairman of the Finance Committee.

Like a thunderbolt from a clear sky came the announcement of President Clair Stillwagon that he had heard many complaints from the townspeople that they did not have proper representation from the new wards caused by annexation. Without any more ado, Councilman John Dean offered the following slate to fill the vacancies:

FIFTH WARD—John Reynolds, W. S. Schenck.

FOURTH WARD—Harry Dunn, Alex. Francis.

THIRD WARD—Walter Shuman.

SECOND WARD—John Irwin.

FIRST WARD—Melvin Grey.

In two minutes those seven men had been made Councilmen. A vote was called for and while all did not vote there was not an opposing voice raised against their election.

Connellsville now has 23 Councilmen. Fifteen are from the Connellsville side of the river, three from each ward. On the West Side, two wards, there are eight Councilmen. Prior to the action last night the West Side with its two wards had eight representatives while Connellsville with five wards had alike number. Originally New Haven had seven Councilmen, but with the election of P. M. Buttermore as Chief Burgess and the consolidation he came in as a Councilman to serve three years. This gave the West Side an unequal representation as compared to the Connellsville side with its five wards.

With all the pyrotechnics last night the Council near its conclusion got down to business and at last seriously considered the appeals and the imperative demands of State Commissioner of Health, Samuel Dixon. He submitted a letter to the Council telling them that he expected to have on record in his office not later than September 1, the plans and specifications for a comprehensive sewer system and disposal plant. The letter was short but to the point.

Over this there arose endless yards of discussion as to what was meant and what was needed and what would be necessary to do to escape the wrath and displeasure of the Health Commissioner, but finally L. L. Gibson, representing Borough Engineer Hogg, stated that all that was necessary was to record the plans at Uniontown and work could go on. An exhaustive appeal was made from the South Side that the sewers asked for almost a year ago be built. Mr. Gibson said that if the plans were filed these sewers could be constructed. There arose an other misunderstanding here, it being alleged that the proper papers had been filed. Borough Attorney Goldsmith was present and took issue with Councilman Duggan stating that he had not been directed to file the necessary papers and that so far as he know they had not been prepared. Duggan stirred up a quarrel with the hold-over Councilmen and said that this was a business Council and that they were doing the things that other Councils left undone, and that they intended doing them. A pretty wordy wrangle ensued, again and it became acrimonious as it was joined in from all sides. For the first time in his long career as President of Council, Clair Stillwagon became outwardly disgusted and rapped with both hands to have the warring members come to order. He was displeased all over and he didn't fail to exhibit it even to the faithful.

Following this interval there were opinions galore upon the question of a sewer system as laid down by the Pennsylvania Legislature, and a motion finally prevailed that an appropriation of $100 should be allowed the Borough Engineer to bring into Council estimated costs of the work. Mr. Gibson stated that the preliminaries would not cost over $5,000 in his judgment, while he felt sure that the disposal plant could be erected, with all the incidental work for $40,000. This statement was somewhat of a relief to the Council as some of the members of the august body had after diligent figuring placed the cost well up to and some over the $100,000 mark.

Boys can't swim in the old Stony Mill pool any more. Councilman Stoner was responsible for a resolution which was backed by all the Councilmen that no swimming should be allowed there in the future. The many drownings that have occurred there, and the recent drowning of the little McCormick boy bringing the matter to a focus. A heavy fine will be imposed upon anyone going in swimming in the famous pool in the future. This, however, does not bar swimming in the Yough.

Incidental to the opening of the meeting the regular order of business applicable to the holding of a special meeting was changed. Councilman Buttermore, after hearing the President state that the meeting was called for the purpose of considering and awarding paving contracts, moved that the meeting be made a general one. It was agreed to without dissent.

John Dean reported upon the East Fayette street paving and stated that the Committee desired to be empowered to do something definitely as a number of the property owners were willing to pay their share of the costs, but that the inequality that might arise was unfair. Some of the property owners had offered to pay, others would not. Another big long discussion took place. Some wanted every cent paid on it, while others thought that leniency should be shown to the willing property owner. First it was decided to have the Finance Committee hold out for every penny that was due, and finally it narrowed down to a resolution that the Committee knock off all interest and receive the amount due as filed at Uniontown, less the interest. Whether this carries the costs or not is indefinite.

President Stillwagon brought the meeting to a speedy end by reading over the balance of the Committees, hardly stopping to hear whether there were reports or not from them.

SENATOR CLAPP LEADER OF FIGHT ON FREE SUGAR.

Senator Clapp of Minnesota led the fight in the Senate against admitting tobacco and sugar from the Philippines free, his contention being that the sugar and tobacco trusts alone would be the beneficiaries of such legislation in this country. He was told by Senator Aldrich that the measure was especially favored by the President and replied that he had been diligently at work throughout the special session to carry out Mr. Taft's pledges to the people in regard to tariff reform, but that little headway was being made. The Minnesota Senator has voted with the several other Republican Senators from the middle west for a downward revision of the tariff.

GEO. S. BATON BUSY LETTING CONTRACTS

Drawing Plans For Extension of Isabella-Connellsville Plant and For Coal Machinery.

George S. Baton, formerly of Uniontown and Scottdale, who has large interests in the region, and is now located in Pittsburg, is preparing plans for an extension to be made by the Isabella-Connellsville Coke Company of East Riverside, where the company will sink two coal shafts a depth of 150 feet and later will build 600 coke ovens at the plant.

Engineer Baton has also awarded the contracts to the Link-Belt Company of Chicago, for coal washing machinery to be installed for the Sans Bois Coal Company at Fort Smith, Ark.

KOBACKERS BUUGHT OUT THE LEADER AT 43C ON THE DOLLAR.

B. Richstein Retires and Leaves for Oklahoma.

Connellsville to Have One of the Most Up-to-date and Exclusive Cloak and Millinery Stores.

A deal was just closed between H. Kobacker & Sons of Mt. Pleasant and B. Reichstein, proprietor of The Leader. The Leader store was sold at 43 cents on the dollar.

Mr. B. Reichstein established a very good trade here in the cloak and millinery lines. On account of the failure in health he was obliged to sell out and he left for Oklahoma.

Alfred J. Kobacker, the junior member of the firm of H. Kobacker & Sons and present manager of the store, will take full charge of the Connellsville store which will be called "Kobacker's, the Woman's Store."

Kobackers expect to hold a large sale to sell out every dollar's worth of goods and then remodel the entire store and make it one of the most up-to-date exclusive cloak and millinery stores in this vicinity.

Many of the Kobacker friends will be glad to know that Kobackers are in town where they will always get a square deal, operating one of the largest stores in Westmoreland county, and in Connellsville with this store they will be in position to handle big quantities which will be one of the reasons why the Connellsville public will find at Kobacker's the same goods for less money.

This sale will mean a great deal to every economical woman as they will be able to buy fresh, new, up-to-date merchandise at less than 60c on the dollar.

SCHOOL BOARD FIXES TAX MILLAGE.

Sinking Fund and is cared for. The millage is divided into eight mills for the General Fund, 3½ mills for the Building Fund and 1½ mills for the Sinking Fund.

Chairman Armstrong said the Board this year must insist upon the collection of all the tax. He argued that it was unfair to make the man who pays his taxes meet a higher millage and exonerate the man who doesn't pay.

Director James S. Darr argued at length for a lower tax levy, but the Finance Committee considered its estimate as a rock bottom one. Darr submitted an amendment of 7 mills for General, 2½ mills for Building and 1½ mills for Sinking Funds, but it received no second. The millage recommended by the Finance Committee was adopted after a letter from the School Board's counsel stated his opinion that one levy for all the borough was the proper procedure.

Dr. T. H. White reported the matter of taking over the Greenwood school building from Dunbar township and stated the township School Board offered the building at $6,000. The committee represented by Dr. White believed this to be reasonable and it was approved. An agreement between the Boards for presentation to court will be drawn up.

The supplies for the year were awarded to Gordon & Foster of McKeesport. Their bid was $754.62. W. G. Johnson & Company bid $588.60; Kurtz & Company, $793.80 and Roberts & Mock, $820.65. The quality of the supplies offered by the successful bidder was entirely satisfactory to the supply committee and the Board.

The sum of $325 was appropriated the Supply Committee and Principal Masters of the High School for establishing a laboratory of physics.

One new teacher was elected last night, Miss Capitola Harrison succeeding Miss Nelle G. Penn on the West Side. Miss Harrison came with the recommendation of the old West Side Directors. Miss Penn resigned because she secured a better position in Uniontown.

Acceptances were received from B. B. Smith, W. E. Atkinson and Miss Ada M. Neal, who were recently elected.

Principal Deffenbaugh and the Supply Committee were authorized to purchase some needed text books for schools on both sides of the river.

Rev. D. E. Minerd wrote the Board for permission to hold church services in the Greenwood school but this was laid on the table until the Board is in possession of the building. A West Side man wants to pasture his cow in the front yard of the Fourth street school, West Side. There was no action taken. Adjournment was then taken.

Before the Board met last evening the Directors assembled in convention and decided to take steps towards the election of a Borough Superintendent. The Board will meet June 9 at 7.45 P. M., after the matter has been duly advertised, to proceed with the election.

Walters Second Lieutenant.

Alva M. Walters was elected second lieutenant of Company C, Tenth regiment last night, to succeed George E. Mills, resigned.

FOSTER DROPPED BY CONFERENCE.

Professor's Writings Are Re sented by Chicago Baptists.

A STORMY SESSION IS HELD

University of Chicago Professor's Denial of the Divinity of Christ Stirs Fellow Churchmen to a High Pitch of Excitement.

Chicago, June 22.—Professor George Burman Foster of the University of Chicago, whose denial of the Divinity of Christ in a recent book has stirred Chicago Baptists to a high pitch of resentment, was dropped from the Baptist ministers' conference of Chicago.

Hisses, yells and general confusion made the meeting one of the stormiest ever held by churchmen in Chicago, and it was referred to by one preacher as resembling a political meeting in a rowdy ward.

Speakers who had been howled or hissed down sat with flushed faces while the chairman pounded for order.

The young son of Professor Foster was present. "It's a shame and unfair," he shouted as he left the hall.

Dr. M. P. Boynton came in for a hissing when he said: "We are not going at this matter right. Foster is as good as Myers or any one here and"—

His voice was drowned. The Myers he referred to is the Rev. Dr. Johnston Myers, one of the chief assailants of Professor Foster.

Then some of the ministers tried to check the hissing. Dr. Myers shouted above the din: "It is no worse to hiss than to have those present denounced as Dr. Boynton is doing. The hisses should not be stopped unless Dr. Boynton is stopped."

Dr. Myers attempted to introduce a resolution to drop Professor Foster, whereat his veracity was assailed by the Rev. Dr. A. H. Hanley. "This matter was decided for good and all last week," he shouted. "Dr. Myers promised on his honor that if he didn't get his resolution through then he would not again bring it up. Now he is doing exactly contrary to his promise."

"I deny the statement," responded Dr. Myers, coolly. "I promised not to reintroduce that particular motion because my motives had been questioned. Specific charges were wanted and that is what I have here today."

Dr. Myers declared that months ago Professor Foster was asked to explain to the conference why he should be considered a Baptist, and the educator has refused point blank.

PREPARING FOR TEST.

Wright Brothers at Work at Fort Myer.

Washington, June 22.—That the Wright brothers will take every precaution to prevent any recurrence of the accident to Orville Wright at Fort Myer last September is evident from the methods they are pursuing in connection with the resumption of the trials this week.

It is not likely that they will make their speed trial over the course to Alexandria, Va., on account of the roughness of the country in that direction, but it is most probable that they will take the five-mile course in the direction of Falls Church, Va., west of Fort Myer. The two aviators occupied the day in working on their aeroplane.

The machine which Orville will use to complete the government trial is entirely new, with the exception of the motor, which is the same one used in the machine wrecked last year. A double set of guy wires has been attached to the rear rudder.

The Wrights do not expect that their aeroplane will be ready to fly before Friday or Saturday. Orville Wright says that while the speed trials across a rough country required new conditions to overcome, he was certain that he would fulfill all the government requirements.

After Roosevelt's Record.

Rochester, N. Y., June 22.—In an effort to beat the ride of former President Roosevelt and the officers who accompanied him, when they made about 120 miles in a day, Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth of Avon, leader in Washington society and personal friend of the Roosevelts, rode 150 miles in sixteen hours and she stood the ride well. Eight horses were used in the test ride.

Thrown From Auto Under Engine

Camden, N. J., June 22.—Glenn H. Dobbs of Collingswood, N. J., was killed and William Wynd of the same place was injured when a Pennsylvania railroad express train struck an automobile in which they were riding on the outskirts of this city. Dobbs was thrown under the locomotive and ground to death.

Woodrow Wilson For Governor.

GEORGE H. EARLE, JR., WHO AIDS UNCLE SAM IN SUGAR FIGHT

In the Government's prosecution of the American Sugar Refining Company for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law George H. Earle, Jr., of Philadelphia will be the principal witness. Mr. Earle as Receiver for the Real Estate Trust Company of Philadelphia forced the American Sugar Refining Company to pay over several millions of dollars to the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company in settlement of a suit involving violations of the anti-trust laws. Mr. Earle sought to have the Government prosecute the sugar trust last year, but failed. Recently he brought the case to the attention of Attorney General Wickersham and the latter immediately began gathering evidence for the prosecution.

JOAN OF ARC.

Only One Performance by Maude Adams in the Harvard Stadium.

Cambridge, Mass., June 22.—Never in the history of the American stage has there been a performance such as that of "Joan of Arc" to be given by Maude Adams in the Harvard stadium tonight. According to those who have witnessed the rehearsals and have grasped the scope and purpose of the play, the only dramatic representation with which it can be compared is the Passion play at Oberammergau.

In a series of splendid dramatic pictures, drawn on a vast scale, Miss Adams will depict the life of the young peasant girl who delivered France from the English invaders in the fifteenth century. All sides of the character of the Maid of Orleans will be shown—her life in her native cottage, the visitation of voices that led her to the saving of her dearly beloved France, her leadership of the French forces to victory and her martyrdom.

The performance will be adequately staged. There will be 1,300 active participants, including about 800 men in armor on horseback, monks, citizens of both sexes, nobles, choir boys, English and French soldiery. The great historic figures of the time will be represented by actors well able to carry out the illusion of reality, and the stage settings and costumes will show the results of an immense amount of historical research. The play is an English version of Schiller's "Joan of Arc."

Miss Adams has had the co-operation of Charles Frohman, the well-known manager, in her production for the reproduction of "Joan of Arc." All his resources have been drawn upon freely for the purpose of the play. The purpose of the performance is the raising of money to help in the erection of a new building for the Germanic museum of Harvard university. Only one performance will be given. After the play tonight the company will be dispersed and the properties will be shipped to New York.

TO DENVER BY FREIGHT

Girl Falls Asleep in Box Car and Takes Long Trip.

Denver, Col., June 22.—While Mabel Warren, age fifteen, was playing in a box car in the Kansas City freight yards last week she fell asleep. When she awoke she found the car was moving. It was dark and her screams for help were not answered.

The car rolled into Denver last night and yardmen heard faint cries for help as they passed. They found the girl nearly starved and sent her to the police station, where she was cared for and later sent to her grandmother in Kansas City.

SAYS SHE HAS CONFESSED

Police Allege Mrs. Tracey Poisoned Her Husband With Strychnine.

New York, June 22.—Mrs. Minnie Tracey, arrested pending an investigation of the sudden death of her husband, Joshua Tracey, has, the police say, confessed that she poisoned the man.

In a statement which is held by the police, it is officially given out, she implicates her brother-in-law, William R. Brown, who is also in jail, declaring that he purchased and gave to her strychnine which she mixed with her husband's whisky.

LICKING IT INTO SHAPE

Tax Amendment Will Be Ready For Presentation Thursday.

Washington, June 22.—President Taft will personally supervise putting the finishing touches upon the proposed amendment to the tariff bill providing for the imposition of a 2 per cent tax upon the net earnings of corporations.

CONVERTS HOLD MEETING.

Will Offer Reward For Capture of Miss Sigel's Slayer.

New York, June 22.—Although the mission in Chinatown where Elsie Sigel formerly taught has been closed, a meeting of Chinese who have been converted to Christianity was held in a Doyer street mission to discuss plans for raising a fund to be offered as a reward for the capture of Elsie Sigel's slayer. No definite sum was decided upon, but a committee will go through Chinatown soliciting subscriptions.

In discussing the case the Rev. Mow said that Leon Ling had never been connected with the mission in any way and as far as he knew had never attended any school in Chinatown. Miss Sigel, he said, had taught him. The scholars, he continued, keenly felt the disgrace that the murder had brought upon the mission schools and stood ready to aid the police in every way to bring about the capture of the murderer.

FINALLY ROUNDED UP

Man of Many Aliases Gives Detectives Merry Chase.

Philadelphia, June 22.—After a chase which led through many of the principal cities of this country and Mexico, James D. McCain, alias H. H. Defluven, alias Joseph D. O'Brien, was arrested at Shelly, Pa., near here, on the charge of forging a check for $500 in Chicago.

McCain, who claims to be a member of a prominent family in Pittsburg, is said to have been at one time a government contractor in the Philippines. He arrived in Chicago a few years ago and secured a position with the Ross-Denn Electrical Construction company. He disappeared after the discovery that the firm's name had been forged to a check.

OCTOGENARIAN A SUICIDE

On Eighty-First Birthday Aged Man Takes Paris Green.

Pittsburg, June 22.—On the eighty-first anniversary of his birthday and the fifty-second anniversary of his marriage George Kraus, a retired contractor, died at the home of his son-in-law, a victim of paris green, reported to have been taken with suicidal intent.

The aged victim was found by his daughter in a little workshop in which he had been tinkering. Kraus was revived, and, when questioned, said he did not know why he had taken the poison, but that he had been sick. He died shortly afterward.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

One Jumps Into Water to Rescue the Other—Both Go to Bottom.

Washington, June 22.—Charles Salvey and William Rook, nine and eight years old, respectively, were drowned while bathing in the eastern branch of the Potomac river near this city.

Salvey was seized with cramps and became powerless in water several feet over his head. While he was struggling for life his companion, who was an excellent swimmer for his age, made a dash to his rescue. Salvey was almost exhausted, and he threw his arms about William's neck. Both sank together.

Mangled Body Found In Box Car.

Akron, O., June 22.—The body of an unidentified man about forty years old, who doubtless had been murdered and robbed, was found in a box car here. The man's skull had been crushed in.

OMISSIONS ARE POINTED OUT.

Criticism of Articles On the the Properties of Steel Corporation.

HOW LONG THE ORE SHOULD LAST

Some of the Things Omitted From Certain Financial Articles Are Given in Detail and Explained. Figuring Ore Values Paramount.

At frequent intervals digests appear in the financial press of the value of properties of the United States Steel Corporation. One such has just appeared in the Wall Street Journal. There is a certain style followed in all such articles which is open to criticism as it uniformly omits certain points which are germane to the subject, says the American Metal Market.

One of these points is the omission of reference to the Steel Corporation's bonds, the assumption being made that expenditures for improvements or extensions are to be credited to the common stock. This article points out that the Corporation since organization has increased its surplus from $25,000,000 to $145,000,000 has spent $398,000,000 for new construction and extraordinary replacements, and has increased its net liquid assets by $59,000,000, making a total of $145,000,000 "which is equal to nearly $38 a share on the common stock." Probably it is arithmetically equal, but the point should not be omitted that prior to the common stock the Corporation has $600,000,000 of bonds and $300,000,000 of preferred stock. The question should be asked and answered "Was it on the common stock?"

Another omission is the question of interest in figuring ore values, which question is paramount. The article mentions the Northern ore properties as blocked at $750,000,000, at 50 cents ton for 1,500,000,000 tons. In another place the article speaks of the ore lasting 75 years, but we prefer to estimate the ore life on a more definite basis; in our issue of June 10 we found the Corporation's blast furnace capacity was 14,000,000 tons, including the Tennessee company and excluding the second four Gary furnaces. Reversing this, we have 14,000,000 tons capacity dependent on the Northern ore, and as most of it is rather lean we take two tons of ore to a ton pig iron, making 28,000,000 tons a year, which into 1,500,000,000 tons gives 54 years. Take it 50, which would be better for the financial journal's argument.

If the ore is to be used up by a like amount each year and is to last 50 years, then of each 50 tons a ton will be mined each year. If the ton of ore as mined is worth 50 cents, then the present worth of the last ton mined is only 2.7 cents, since that amount, at compound interest for 50 years at 6 per cent. will equal 50 cents. But suppose the ton is capitalized at 50 cents, which is equivalent to buying it at 50 cents and not getting delivery for 50 years, then it will have to bring $9.21 at the end of the period, for 50 cents invested at compound interest will amount to $9.21 in 50 years. This arithmetic, we submit, is enough to show that anyone is going to burn his fingers who talks about hundreds of millions of tons of ore being worth 50 cents, a dollar, or any such sum, when mining must be spread over half a century. Everybody knows all this, but somehow it is the fashion to forget about it when talking of ore and the Steel Corporation, possibly because Wall Street, having to have an explanation of everything, must have an explanation of the present prices of Steel Corporation stocks, and this poor explanation is better than none.

Large Crowd Watches Scrap.

Philadelphia, June 22.—During a fight between Chinamen in a laundry at Tenth and Locust streets, Lee Kee, the proprietor, shot and fatally wounded Lee Sing. The shooting occurred in the presence of a crowd of nearly a thousand persons who had collected on hearing a revolver shot in the laundry.

Newsboy's Communication in Senate.

Washington, June 22.—Probably for the first time in the history of the senate a communication from a newsboy was read in open session. It was signed by Arthur Prague, manager of the Spokane Newsboys' association, expressing regret upon learning of the death of the Rev. Edward Everett Hale.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1906, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"How the dev— Of course I didn't know," groaned Chase. "But, hang it all, man, he was annoying her. She was flouting him for it. She said she despised him. I don't understand"—

The princess came forward into the light of the path. There was a quaint little wrinkle of mirth about her lips, which trembled nevertheless, but her eyes were full of solicitude.

"I'm sorry, sir," she began nervously. "You have made a serious mistake. But," she added frankly, holding out her hand to him, "you meant to defend me. I thank you."

Chase bowed low over her hand, too bewildered to speak. Baggs was pulling at his mustache and looking nervously in the direction which the prince had taken.

"He'll be back here with the guard," he muttered.

"He will go to my father," said Genevra, her voice trembling. "He will be very angry. I am sorry, indeed, that you should have witnessed our—our scene. Of course you could not have known who he was."

"I thought he was a— But in any event, your highness, he was annoying you," supplemented Chase eagerly. "You will forgive me if I've caused you even greater, graver annoyance. What can I do to set the matter right? I can explain my error to the duke. He'll understand."

"Perhaps—perhaps you'd better go at once," said the princess, rather pathetically. "My father will not overlook the indignity to—to my—to his future son-in-law. I am afraid he may take extreme measures."

"Forgive me," muttered the hapless Chase.

"It would not be proper in me to say that I could bless you for what you have done," she said, so naively that he lifted his eyes to hers and let his heart escape heavenward.

"The whole world will call me a bungling, stupid ass for not knowing who he was," said Chase, with a wretched smile.

"If I were you I'd never confess that I did not know who he was," she said. "Let the world think that you did know. It will not laugh then. If you can trust your friend to keep the secret I am sure you can trust me to do the same."

Again Chase was speechless—this time with joy. She would shield him from ridicule!

"And now please go! It grieves me to feel that I may be the unhappy cause of misfortune to you."

"No misfortune can appall me now," murmured he gallantly. Then came the revolting realization that she was to wed the little musician. The thought burst from his lips before he could prevent: "I don't believe you want to marry him. He is the duke's choice. You"—

"And I am the duke's daughter," she said steadily, a touch of hauteur in her voice. "Good night. Goodby. I am not sorry that it has happened."

She turned and left them, walking swiftly among the trees. A moment later her voice came from the shadows, quick and pleading.

"Hasten," she called softly. "They are coming. I can see them."

"It's a devil of a mess," sighed Baggs when they were far from the walls. "I'm sure it will cost you your job, if nothing else. You'll be relieved before tomorrow night, my word for it. And you'll be lucky if that's all. The duke's a terror. I don't for the life of me see how you failed to know who the chap really is."

"An Englishman never sees a joke until it is too late, they say. This time it appears to be the American who is slow witted. What I don't understand is why he was leading that confounded band."

"My word, Chase, everybody in Europe, except you, knows that Brabotz is a crank about music—composes, directs and all that. He's a confounded little bounder just the same. He's mad about music and women and doesn't care a hang about wine—the worst kind, don't you know. I say it's a shame she has to marry him. But that's the way of it with royalty, old chap. You Americans don't understand it. They have to marry one another whether they like it or not. But, I say, you'd better come over and stop with me tonight. It will be better if they don't find you just yet."

Three days later a man came down to relieve Chase of his office. He was sincere'coolously supplanted in the duchy of Rapp-Thorberg.

It was the successful pleading of the Princess Genevra that kept him from serving a period in durance vile.

CHAPTER V.

THE ENGLISH INVADE.

THE granddaughter of Jack Wyckholme, attended by two maids, her husband and his valet, a clerk from the chambers of Bosworth, Newnes & Grapewin, a red cocker, seventeen trunks and a sentinel of late novels which she had been too busy to read at home, was the first of the bewildered legatees to set foot upon the island of Japat.

She was very pretty, very smart and delightfully arrogant after a manner of her own.

Mr. Saunders was the polite but excessively middle class clerk who went out to keep the legal strings untangled for them. He was soon to discover that his duties were even more comprehensive.

It was he who saw to it that the luggage was transferred to the lighter which came out to the steamer when she dropped anchor off the town of Aratat; it was he who counted the pieces and haggled with the boatmen; it was he who carried off the hand luggage when the native dock boys refused to engage in the work; it was he who unfortunately dropped a suit case upon the hallowed tail of the red cocker, an accident which ever afterwards gave him a tenacity of grip that no man could understand.

If Lady Deppingham expected a royal welcome from the inhabitants of Japat she was soon to discover her error. Not only was the pictured scene of welcome missing on the afternoon of her arrival, but an overpowering air of antipathy smote her in the face as she stepped from the lighter. conquest in her smile of conciliation. She glanced from right to left down the lines of swarthy islanders and saw nothing in their faces but surly, bitter unfriendliness. They stood stolidly, stonily at a distance, white robed lines of resentment personified.

Not a hand was lifted in assistance to the bewildered visitors; not a word, not a smile of encouragement escaped the lips of the silent throng.

"Is there no British agent here?" she demanded imperatively, perhaps a little more shrilly than usual.

No one deigned to answer. Glances of indifference, even scorn, passed among the silent lookers-on, but that was all.

"Does no one here understand the English language?" she demanded. "I don't mean you, Mr. Saunders," she added sharply as the little clerk set the suit case down abruptly and stepped forward, again fumbling his much fumbled straw hat. This was the moment when the red cocker's tail came to grief. The dog arose with an astonished yelp and fled to his mistress. He had never been so outrageously set upon before in all his pampered life. Seizing the opportunity to vent her feelings upon one who could understand, even as she poured soothings upon the insulted Pong, whom she clasped in her arms, Lady Agnes transformed the unlucky Saunders into a target for a most ably directed volley of wrath.

Lord Deppingham, a slow and cumbersome young man, stood by nervously fingering his eyeglass. For the first time he felt that the clerk was better than a confounded dog after all.

"My dear," he said, waving Saunders into the background, "I think it was an accident. The dog had no business going to sleep"— He paused and inserted his monocle for the purpose of looking up the precise spot where the accident had occurred.

"Oh, rubbish!" exclaimed her ladyship. "I suppose you expect the poor darling to apologize."

"All this has nothing to do with the case. We're more interested in learning where we are and where we are to go. Permit me to have a look about."

His wife stared after him in amazement as he walked over to the canvas awning in front of the low dock building, actually elbowing his way through a group of natives. Presently he came back, twisting his left mustache.

"The fellow in there says that the English agent is employed in the bank. It's straight up this street. By Jove! He called it a street, don't you know," he exclaimed, disdainfully eying the narrow, dusty passage ahead.

"There's the British flag, my lord, just ahead. See the building to the right, sir?" said Mr. Saunders, more respectfully than ever and with real gratitude in his heart.

"So it is! That's where he is. I wonder why he isn't down here to meet us?"

"Very likely he didn't know we were coming," said his wife lolly.

"Well, we'll look him up. Come along, everybody. Oh, I say, we can't leave this luggage unguarded. They say these fellows are the worst robbers east of London."

It was finally decided, after a rather subdued discussion, that Mr. Saunders should proceed to the bank and rout out the dilatory representative of the British government. Saunders looked down the sullen line of faces and blanched to his toes.

"Tell him we'll wait for him," pursued his lordship. "But remind him, —— him, that it's inexpressibly hot down here in the sun."

They stood and watched the miserable Saunders tread gingerly up the filthy street, his knees crooking outwardly from time to time, very much as if he were contemplating an instantaneous sprint in any direction but the one he was taking. Even the placid Deppingham was somewhat disturbed by the significant glances that followed their emissary as he passed by each separate knot of natives.

"I do hope Mr. Saunders will come back alive," murmured Bromley, her ladyship's maid. The others started, for she had voiced the general thought.

"He won't come back at all, Bromley, unless he comes back alive," said his lordship, with a smile. It was a well known fact that he never smiled except when his mind was troubled.

"Goodness, Deppy," said his wife, recognizing the symptom, "do you really think there is danger?"

"My dear Aggy, who said there was any danger? he exclaimed and quickly looked out to sea. "I rather think we'll enjoy it here," he added after a moment's pause, in which he saw that the steamer was getting under way. The Japat company's tug was returning to the pier. Lord Deppingham sighed and then drew forth his cigarette case. "There," he went on, peering intently up the street. "Saunders is gone."

"Gone?" half shrieked her ladyship.

"Into the bank," he added, scratching a match.

"Deppy," she said after a moment, "I hope I was not too hard on the poor fellow."

"Perhaps you won't be so nervous if you sit down and look at the sea," he said gently, and she immediately knew that he suggested it because he expected a tragedy in the opposite direction.

They expected every minute to hear the shouts of assassins and the screams of the brave Mr. Saunders. Their apprehensions were sensibly increased by the mysterious actions of the half naked loiterers. They made off in various directions, more than one of them handling his ugly creese in an ominous manner. Bromley was not slow to acquaint his lordship with these movements. Deppingham felt a cold chill about up his spine, but he refused to encourage the maid's fears by turning around.

"Your lordship," said Mr. Saunders three minutes later, "this is Mr. Bowles, his majesty's agent here. He is come with me to"—

It was then and not until then that his lordship turned his stare from the sea to the clerk and his companion.

"Aw," he interrupted, "glad to see you, I'm sure. Would you be good enough to tell us how we are to reach the—er—chateau and why the devil we can't get anybody to move our luggage?"

Mr. Bowles, who had lived in Japat for sixteen years, was a tortuously slow Englishman, with the curse of the clime still growing upon him. He was half asleep quite a good bit of the time and wholly asleep during the remainder.

"Everything is transferred by hand, my lord, and the chateau is two miles farther up the side of the mountain. It's quite a walk, sir."

"Do you mean to say we are to walk?"

"Yes, my lord, if you expect to go there."

"Of course we expect to go there. Are there no horses on the beastly island?"

"Hundreds, my lord, but they belong to the people, and no one but their owners ride them. The servants at the chateau turned Mr. Skaggs' horses out to pasture before they left."

"The servants, my lord."

Lady Deppingham's eyes grew wide with understanding. "You don't mean to say that the servants have left the place?" she cried.

"Yes, my lady. They were natives, you know."

"What's that got to do with it?" demanded Deppingham.

"I'm afraid you don't understand the situation," said Mr. Bowles patiently. "You see, it's really a triangular controversy, if I may be so bold as to say so. Lady Deppingham is one of the angles; Mr. Browne, the American gentleman, is another; the native population is the last. Each wants to be the hypotenuse. While the interests of all three are merged in the real issue, there is nevertheless a decided disposition all around to make it an entirely one sided affair."

"I don't believe I grasp"— muttered Deppingham blankly.

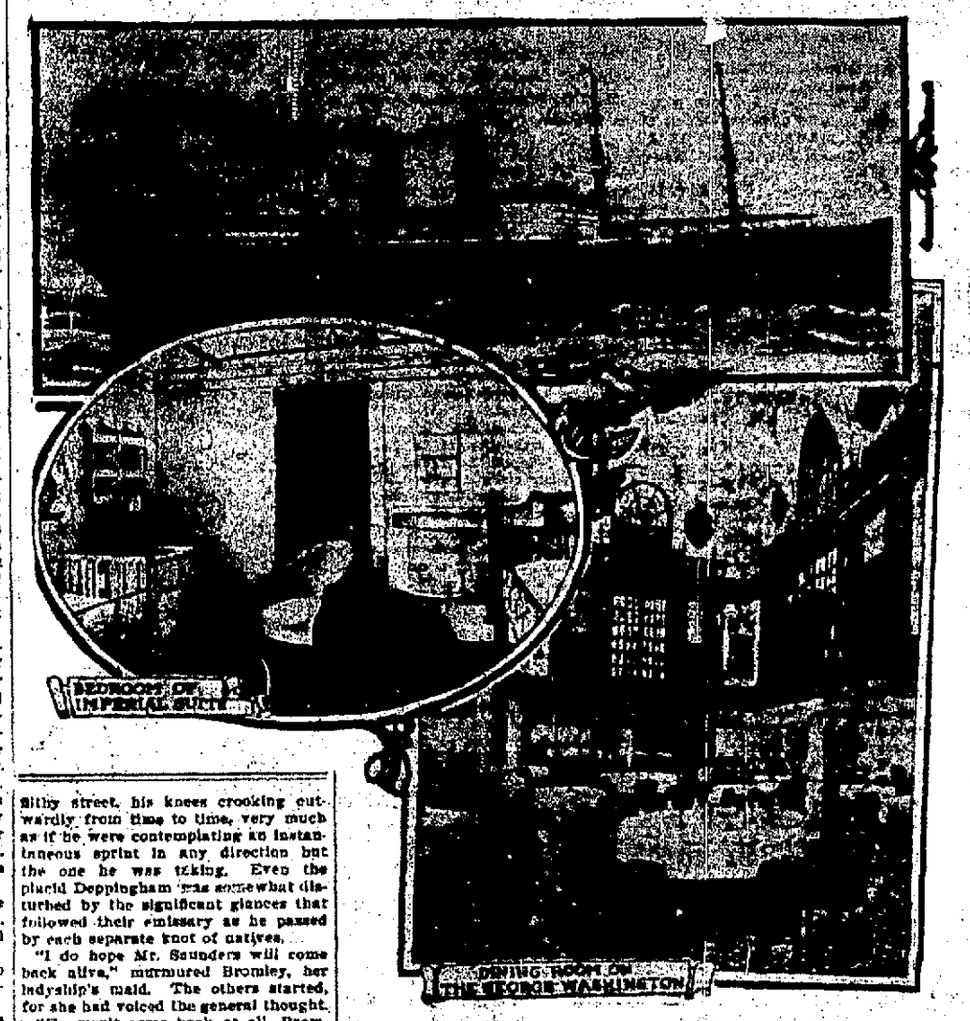
"I see perfectly," exclaimed his wife. "The natives are allied against us, just as we are, in a way, against them and Mr. Browne. Really, it seems quite natural, doesn't it, dear?" turning to her husband.

"Very likely, but very unfortunate. It leaves us to broil our brains out down here on this pier. I say, Mr.—er—old chap, can't you possibly engage some sort of transportation for us? Really, you know, we can't stand here all day."

"I've no doubt I can arrange it, my lord. If you will just wait here until I run back to the bank I dare say I'll find a way. Perhaps you'd prefer standing under the awning until I return." [To be continued.]

VIEWS OF STEAMSHIP GEORGE WASHINGTON, NEW AND PALATIAL TRANSATLANTIC LINER.

The new steamship George Washington of the North German Lloyd line; the largest German transatlantic liner afloat, reached New York on June 20. The American Ambassador to Germany, Dr. David Jayne Hill, christened the new ship in honor of the first President of the United States, and while she is at New York on her maiden visit to the western hemisphere a bronze tablet to the memory of Washington will be unveiled on board. Mrs. William Cummings Story, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be in charge of the ceremonies, and President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton will deliver an address. The George Washington is fitted with every modern convenience known to ocean travel. Her furnishings and interior decorations are largely in colonial style, and in striving to carry out this idea the company sent a corps of artists to this country to study Washingtoniana, so that the furnishings and the magnificent pictures that adorn the assembly rooms of the steamship might be authentic. The vessel is 722 feet 5 inches in length, beam 78 feet, depth from upper saloon deck 54 feet and depth from awning deck 30 feet. She made an average speed of 20 knots an hour on her trial trip.



RATS COSTLY BOARDERS.

Millions of Dollars' Worth of Grain Destroyed Every Year.

It costs the American people $100,000,000 yearly in grain alone to feed the rat. This is only one of many interesting facts gleaned from a statement prepared by the experts of the biological survey of the department of agriculture entitled "The Rat Problem" and issued the other day.

Untold millions are destroyed every year by the rat, which is also the principal agent in the dissemination of bubonic plague. The pest's bill of fare includes almost everything eaten by man and a considerable number of things not included in human dietaries, as, for instance, carrion, mice, kid gloves, ivory and living horses' hoofs. Its most common food is grain. If fed on grain alone it is estimated that one rat will eat 60 cents' worth a year, while of oatmeal it will consume $1.80 worth.

The rapidity with which rats multiply is the main reason why man appears to make so little headway in their destruction. It is calculated that a single pair of rats and their progeny, breeding without interruption and suffering no losses, would in three years increase to more than 20,000,000. While praising the persistent use of traps and poisons, the experts believe the most promising lines of extermination effort lie in rat proof construction of buildings, especially the use of concrete in foundations, and in reducing the food supply of rats by the disposal of garbage and the protection of food supplies.

"CANNIBALISM SCIENTIFIC."

English Authority Says Man Is the Best Food For Man.

A scientific justification for cannibalism was propounded by Dr. F. Gowland Hopkins in an address at the Royal Institution in London the other day.

"What would be the most efficient protein for men?" he asked. "Clearly, although not a point of practical dietetics, the most sensible person in this connection is the cannibal. In consuming his own kind he is eating exactly the right stuff.

"Though it may seem a grewsome experiment, a worker in Heidelberg has just lately tested the point. He found that a dog when fed with dog was able to do with a much smaller quantity of protein than when fed with any other protein whatever.

"There is a chemistry of species, and the nearer the two species of animals are together the more nearly does the chemistry of their bodies agree."

Her Hands Full.

"Poor woman; she has scarcely time to eat and sleep."

"Nonsense! Why, she is rich and has no duties whatever."

"But she tells me she reads all the latest novels."—Cleveland Leader.

The Holdup Man in Mexico.

Now, as a matter of fact, life and property are as safe in Mexico as in Chicago, and one's life is a great deal safer. Mexico has her pickpockets and her sneak thieves, and burglaries are not unknown, but the holdup man is an individual with whom the police are not well acquainted. This cannot be said of Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis or New York. It may be because the criminal element in Mexico lacks the bravery necessary for following the holdup's profession, or it may be because the city is extraordinarily well guarded by police. It certainly is well guarded by the police, but it matters not what the reason is, the fact is that the man who relieves you of your money in Mexico does so in the manner calculated to cause you the least inconvenience.—Mexico Record.

Joe Phillips was again the Cokers' Nemesis. At Uniontown yesterday, with the score 4 to 3 in favor of the Cokers, Josie smacked the sphere into right-center for three bases, scoring two men who were on the sacks at the time. Then Carlss made his fourth hit of the game and chased Josie home. This was too much for flesh and blood to stand and the Connellsville boys were whipped.

It was a great game, the best of the present series. Both teams fielded well and there was plenty of hitting. The Champions got most of the bingles and made them yield runs. The Cokers also got a run or two from theirs, but they did not get enough to win.

In the second inning Chip Francis was yanked from the contest and decorated the bench for the remainder of the game. He looked bad at a drive by McCloskey, misjudged it, fell trying to recover the ball and let it roll for a homer with a man on the sacks. These were Uniontown's first scores. Dave Calhoun was sent to center and Summers to right, and fielding troubles were no more.

Uniontown tallied first. Carlss, who returned from a trip home just in time to break into the game, led off with a hit. Carnes sacrificed him ahead and then McCloskey pasted the globules to center field for the circuit, thanks to Chip Francis. In justice to Chip the ball was going faster than it seemed, but fast recovery after misjudging the ball would have held McCloskey on third.

The prospect wasn't very cheerful for the Cokers but they started to work in the fourth inning. With one out Myers lifted the ball into center field for the circuit and a lonely tally.

Uniontown came back in her half by getting another run. Carlss hit over the left field hill for two bases, fast work by Myers preventing a longer hit. Carnes sacrificed for a second time, McCloskey went out and then Snodgrass singled, permitting Carlss to score.

The fifth inning was scoreless for both teams but the Cokers got busy for fair in the sixth. Gilligan singled and Hagan beat out his bunt to Livengood. Ike Francis tried to sacrifice but bunted a foul into Snodgrass' mitt. Myers popped out to McCloskey but Calhoun ripped a clean single into left. Gilligan darted over the pan while Rudolph threw to first to catch Calhoun napping. Dave darted back for the bag as Carnes came up for the ball and a collision ensued. Before the tangle was straightened Hagan was across with the tieing run.

Although Carnes opened Uniontown's half with a single, he died on first, but the Cokers jumped into the lead in the seventh. Tiffany singled and Summers fanned. Cannon went out, Livengood to Carnes, but Tiffany made second. He scored on Gilligan's two-bagger. Hagan flew to Miller, retiring the side.

All the trouble for the Cokers happened in Uniontown's half. After two men were down Cannon hit Hilley while Rudolph singled. Joe Phillips came up, smashed the second ball to right-center for three bases and scored himself on a double by Carlss. The score was 6 to 4 and remained that. In the ninth, with two down, Sweeney batted for Cannon and singled but Gilligan's long fly to right ended the game. The score:

Dutch Myers hit for the whole circuit.

Five more games with Uniontown this week.

When it comes to pinch hitters, tag Uniontown.

We could have used some of those bingles nicely.

The Cokers looked more like a real ball team than ever.

Cheer up, fellow, the worst is yet to come—maybe yes, and maybe no.

We gave McCloskey some uneasy minutes, anyhow. He had Wilson warming up.

Dave Calhoun has the faculty of getting on and getting around. Good boy, Dave.

That boy Fralley has a shade on all of them when it comes to backstops. Well, we guess.

Guess there were no flies on Kid Hagan if he did limp. It was joyous to watch him bobble home.

Tiffany got one lonely single which developed into a much needed run. Gordon is getting around the bases better.

When it comes to pinch hitting Mr. Gilligan asks no favors of any of them. Barney played a swell game yesterday.

Ike Francis tried hard to lay one down in the sixth. It wasn't his fault he didn't and they all scored anyway.

Speaking of Ike, do you see any whips working better than his? He gets the mover to first like shots fired from guns.

They dubbed him Marathon Myers after that gambol around the cushions yesterday. He hiked the distance off in great time.

Mr. Livengood had two hits and they were beauts, too. If he makes good in baseball Pete says he will quit teaching school.

"Honest" Abe Kruger has a lame arm. Too bad, we were hoping we might have a chance to show Abe he is almost in the husbeen class.

Summers cracked out a clean single the first time up but was nailed in an attempt to purloin the second cushion. Nobody stole.

Snodgrass has a resemblance to an ice wagon when he starts after some foul flies. Keep it up, old man, it helps us sometimes.

Calhoun was on third when Chip Francis came to bat in the second. The usual pop fly resulted, it being a foul back of third which Hilley landed.

Alex Sweeney drove out a clean single in the ninth. Pity Tiffany and Summers had gone the way of all flesh before he came to bat.

What does it profit a player to join the anvil chorus against his own teammates? Ask the man who said Gilligan deserved three errors for his work in Friday's game.

That lad Summers injects lots of ginger in the game. From right field came a continuous string of cheerful comments that sounded like plenty of pepper.

Myers played a nice game in left field. He dove after a couple of drives that looked like homers and held the runner on second each time. The hitter was Carlss.

Joe Phillips struck out the first two times up but who was the laugh on when the game was called? It certainly wasn't on Joe.

Nobody stole on either catcher. Hilley tried to swipe third and was dead easy. Phillips met a similar fate going to second.

Fire Causes Death and Injury.

LEAGUE OUTLOOK IS FAR FROM BRIGHT NOW

Parkersburg Not Interested and Gronniger Hikes For Moundsville.

The outlook in the Pennsylvania & West Virginia league is far from bright just now as a result of Charleroi disbanding. President J. D. Gronninger went to Parkersburg but found no band waiting for him at the train. The Parkersburg people said nix when approached regarding the franchise, so Gronninger hied himself to Moundsville.

It was reported that if Moundsville does not come in one town will be dropped and a four club league operated. This is far from satisfactory. Six clubs are too few and four would be worse.

It is already evident that the Pennsylvania clubs of the Pawva league, and only Connellsville and Uniontown remain, will have to get in other company next season. Gronninger is anxious to take in the whole State of West Virginia and travelling expenses are too steep.

Church League.

The Presbyterian team of the Church League was defeated in a six-inning contest last night at Marietta and Stillwagon park by the Christian team. Both teams played good ball until the fifth inning when Brickman who was pitching for the Presbyterians went up in the air and allowed three runs to come in on as many hits.

In the fourth inning a man was called out when he thought he was safe and he started a dispute with Umpire Grant which resulted in the "Ump" leaving the field. George Snyder was then put in to umpire and he finished umpiring the game.

The score by innings::

	R	H	E
Presbyterians	2	6	0
Christians	5	5	1

Presbyterians—Brickman and Moore; Christians—Jones and Gilbert.

Umpires—Grant and Snyder.

WANTS CHANCE AT JOHNSON

Fitzsimmons Would Like to Take on Colored Heavyweight.

New York, June 22.—Robert Fitzsimmons, the former champion heavyweight of the world, returned to this country today on board the steamship Minneapolis from Europe, where he has been giving theatrical exhibitions.

"I want to fight that man Johnson," said Fitzsimmons when he landed. "I feel mighty sure I can beat him, at least I'm willing to make a desperate try. Please don't forget that I am the middleweight and light-heavyweight champion, for there isn't a man who ever got those titles from me."

Agent of Steel Company a Suicide.

Van Wert, O., June 22.—Frank M. Campbell, sales agent of the Philadelphia branch of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company of Pittsburg, shot and killed himself here. He leaves a widow and three children.

Woman Shoots at Attorney.

South Bend, Ind., June 22.—In the presence of several policemen Mrs. Leon O. Mason fired four shots at John W. Talbot, an attorney. Talbot was not hit. Mrs. Mason was arrested.

MANY SUSPECTS ARE DETAINED.

The Police in Numerous Cities Hold Chinamen.

OFFICERS LOCATE CHUN SIN

Keeper of Restaurant Gives Himself Up, But Sheds No Light on Murder of Miss Sigel—Report of Arrest Is a Mistake.

New York, June 22.—After a bit of police flurry, an hour or two of unverified reports and telephoning between cities, the murder of Elsie Sigel, daughter of Paul Sigel of this city, has resolved itself into an unsolved crime.

Chung Sin, who formerly occupied a room adjoining that where the girl's body was found, is held by the police at the little up-state village of Amsterdam, N. Y., but what has been learned from him has served to clear up the case little, if any.

At Schenectady, the Chinaman arrested, at first thought to be Leon Ling, or William L. Leon, who is sought as the girl's murderer, has, according to all indications, pretty well established that he is an unoffending Celestial, who formerly worked in a restaurant in New York and whose arrest was brought about merely through a strikingly unfortunate resemblance to Leon Ling.

The disappearance of Chun Sin about the time the murder was discovered here made the police eager for his apprehension, which was considered second in importance to that of Leon, but the interview with him at Amsterdam seems to have brought out nothing of value to the authorities. He maintains that he rarely associated with Leon and, while acquainted with Elsie Sigel, knows nothing of the murder.

While the authorities up-state were putting the two Chinamen through an inquisition Sun Leong, keeper of the restaurant above which the body was found, was being questioned at police headquarters here. He is being detained as a material witness, but his voluntary surrender is taken to mean that he is not implicated in any way in the crime.

In the midst of all the police activity the body of Elsie Sigel was quietly buried in Woodlawn cemetery. As the father had announced that he wished to avoid any more publicity, the coffin containing the mutilated form was taken directly from the morgue to the burying ground in a plain undertaking wagon. The ceremony at the grave was strictly private.

Chinese Legation Issues Orders.

Washington, June 22.—Orders were issued by the Chinese legation here to Chinese consuls throughout the United States to do all in their power to assist in the apprehension of the murderer or murderers of Miss Sigel. Those in New York and San Francisco particularly were ordered to exercise great vigilance in the matter.

Chicago Working on Clue.

Chicago, June 22.—Search was begun for a Chinese whose appearance and nervousness suggested that he might be the "William Leon" wanted in connection with the slaying of Miss Elsie Sigel at New York. Mrs. Dora Levin, keeper of a boarding house near the Union station, put the police on the trail.

Baltimore Reports a Clue.

Baltimore, June 22.—The police of this city have positive information that two Chinamen, accompanied by a white woman, on June 14 bought three one-way tickets for New York. Of these, the officials seem satisfied that one was Leon Ling, the alleged murderer of Miss Elsie Sigel in New York.

Chinaman Arrested at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., June 22.—A Chinaman giving the name of Shu Lee Kin was arrested on advices from the Chicago police, the latter having advised Chief of Police Garrett that he was wanted in connection with the murder of Elsie Sigel in New York.

Four Detained at St. Louis.

St. Louis, June 22.—Four Chinamen were arrested here last night by the police, who hope to capture the man suspected of killing Miss Elsie Sigel.

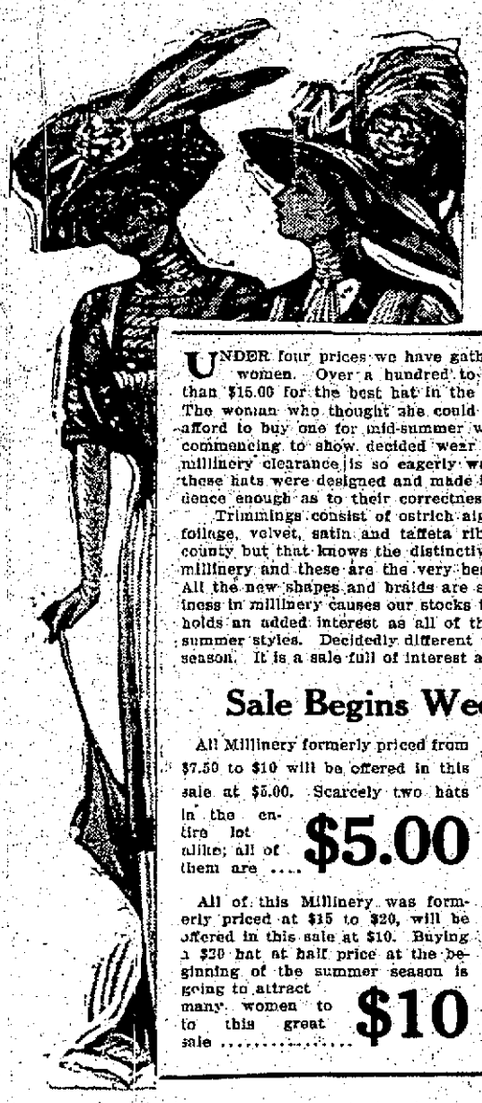
WEAR HORNER'S CLOTHING

Wright-Metzler Co.



Our Best Millinery at Lowered Prices

Every Hat Regularly Priced Between $7.50 and $30.00 Goes Into this Sale.

UNDER four prices we have gathered all of our higher priced hats for women. Over a hundred to choose from and you cannot pay more than $15.00 for the best hat in the house. Most of them are half price. The woman who thought she could not afford another hat can now well afford to buy one for mid-summer wear. Hats bought in the spring are commencing to show decided wear by now; that's why our annual June millinery clearance is so eagerly watched for each year. Every one of these hats were designed and made in our own workrooms which is evidence enough as to their correctness.

Trimmings consist of ostrich aigrettes, feathers, large wings, flowers, foliage, velvet, satin and taffeta ribbons. There isn't a woman in Fayette county but that knows the distinctive style reflected in Wright-Metzler Co. millinery and these are the very best hats we have produced this season. All the new shapes and braids are shown among them. Our immense business in millinery causes our stocks to be always changing thus this sale holds an added interest as all of the hats presented are the correct mid-summer styles. Decidedly different from the styles shown in the earlier season. It is a sale full of interest and will result in the most active buying.

Sale Begins Wednesday, June 23.

All Millinery formerly priced from $7.50 to $10 will be offered in this sale at $5.00. Scarcely two hats in the entire lot alike; all of them are $5.00

All Millinery formerly priced at from $10 to $15 will be offered in this sale at $7.50. Most of these hats are nearly all half price, very few of them worth less than $14 ..... $7.50

All of this Millinery was formerly priced at $15 to $20, will be offered in this sale at $10. Buying a $20 hat at half price at the beginning of the summer season is going to attract many women to this great sale $10

All Millinery formerly priced at from $22.50 to $30 will be offered in this sale at $15. Not a hat in the store that will cost you more than $15 during this sale and many of them are worth double this little price we ask you $15

confidence in us in this matter of clothes are entitled to know the truth about what you buy here; and we're glad to have you know it; there's nothing here that we're afraid to tell the truth about.

Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes are all wool; and all wool is the only real, full value in clothes. We have some clothes that are not all wool; we'll tell you so if you select any of them. We don't advise you to buy cotton-mixed goods; they're mostly disappointing, and that's bad for us as well as you. We have them here to sell to men who are not yet wise enough to insist on all wool.

We'll try to persuade you to buy Hart Schaffner & Marx all wool clothes; they'll cost more because they're worth more. Suits $18 to $25.

A Prosperous. Business Season.

THAT WE ARE on the threshold of an unusually prosperous business season must be evident to all intelligent observers of business conditions. It has come slowly but surely.

Business no longer seeks the business man or the business house. It is sought for by every class and condition of business enterprise, and the cheapest and best way to enlarge the custom of any house, no matter how well established, is by liberal and judicious advertising in the newspapers which reach the people. The business houses which generously and wisely advertise in widely read newspapers are always in the forefront of their class, while those who restrict or reject advertising are always behind in the race.

There is no better medium in Fayette county for legitimate business enterprise to reach the public than in the columns of The Courier. It is more widely read in the homes of progressive and thrifty people than any of our contemporaries, and considering the character and circle of its readers, it furnishes the cheapest advertising that legitimate business can obtain. It is thoroughly representative alike in its reading columns and in its advertisements and now, when profitable business is within reach of our business houses, they should promptly and generously avail themselves of the great opportunity presented.
